CITY MANAGER ANNOUNCES HIS RETIREMENT

(KILLEEN, TEXAS): City Manager Glenn Morrison announced his retirement to City Council at its Workshop last night. He provided the following to City Council:

2016 marks my 30th year of municipal service. It will also mark my final year as I am formally announcing my retirement effective April 2016. I look forward to the next chapter in my life; one filled with family and friends.

Municipal service has been a rewarding and fulfilling career and I am extremely proud of my service to the City of Killeen. Killeen is home and being part of the team that serves this great community has been an honor.

It is with heavy heart that I leave the staff. Team Killeen is a group of amazing public servants who truly embody our mission statement, "Dedicated Service – Every day, for everyone!" It has been a privilege to serve alongside Team Killeen.

I fully understand that my departure will cause a period of transition for the organization and I will do all I can to assist.

Thank you for the opportunity to serve.

Morrison has served the City of Killeen for 27 years. He began his career in 1988 as recreation superintendent and has filled the roles of director of parks and recreation, director of community services and assistant city manager. He was named city manager in June 2012.
