KILLEEN CELEBRATES NATIONAL PUBLIC WORKS WEEK

(KILLEEN, TEXAS): National Public Works Week is May 21 through 27, and Mayor Jose Segarra has proclaimed the week in Killeen to recognize the City's dedicated public works professionals.

“Hundreds of committed employees work in this community each day to provide reliable, efficient public works services and ensure public health and safety, and their efforts are worthy of recognition,” says Mayor Segarra in his proclamation.

The City of Killeen Public Works Department includes Engineering, Environmental Services, Solid Waste, Transportation and Water and Sewer services. From design to delivery, public works employees are creating and improving systems by building and repairing roads, delivering water, removing sewage and solid waste and maintaining waterways. Public Works divisions have a daily impact on our residents' quality of life, and the professional staff works diligently to improve the services provided.

In observance of National Public Works Week, the City is featuring Public Works divisions each day on Facebook to promote awareness of the diverse and essential functions provided by this dynamic department.
